As we draw the curtains on this remarkable World Anti-Corruption Conference, I want to extend our deepest gratitude to all our esteemed guests and sponsors for joining us here today. Your presence has lent incredible significance to this event.

In choosing Indonesia as the first international hosting place for the World Anti-Corruption Conference, we've recognized the nation's unwavering commitment to the fight against corruption. Indonesia's participation as a signatory to the United Nations Convention against Corruption (UNCAC) has paved the way for us to gather and share invaluable experiences. Moreover, Indonesia's impressive economic growth and vast diversity make it the ideal stage for discussing and addressing the multifaceted challenge of corruption.

Moving on to the enriching panel discussions we've had the privilege to witness today, we've delved into crucial topics such as law enforcement for prevention and prosecution, strengthening global governance mechanisms, preventing the misuse of laws, and combating government corruption for clean governance. Our esteemed moderators and panelists have enlightened us with their insights and expertise, contributing significantly to the global dialogue on corruption prevention and accountability.

We hope that the discussions have left you with a deeper understanding and inspiration to take action against corruption in your respective regions. We are profoundly grateful to all our participants who have traveled from far and wide to be here in Jakarta, united in our commitment to combating corruption.
